

3. I charge Count Bertrand with the care of preserving these objects, and of conveying them to my son when, he shall attain the age of sixteen years.

m.

1. Three small mahogany boxes, containing, the first, thirty-three snuff-boxes or bonbonnieres; the second, twelve boxes with the imperial arms, two small eye-telescopes, and four boxes found on the table of Louis XVIII. in the Tuileries on the 20th of March, 1815; the third, three snuff-boxes, ornamented with silver medals habitually used by the Emperor, and sundry articles for the use of the toilet, according to the list numbered I. II. III.
2. My field-bed, which I used in all my campaigns.
3. My field-telescope.
4. My dressing-case, one of each of my uniforms, a dozen of shirts, and a complete set of each of 'ny dresses, and generally of everything used in my toilet.
5. My wash-hand-stand.
6. A small clock which is in my bedchamber at Longwood.
7. My two watches, and the chain of the Empress's hair.
8. I intrust the care of these articles to Marchand, my principal valet de chambre, and direct him to convey them to my son when he shall attain the age of sixteen years.

IV.

9. My cabinet of medals.
10. My plate and my Sevres china, which I used at St. Helena.
(Lists B and C.)
11. I request Count Montholon to take care of these articles, and to convey them to my son when he shall attain the age of sixteen years.

V.

12. My three saddles and bridles, my spurs which I used at St. Helena.
13. My fowling-pieces, to the number of five.
14. I charge my chasseur, Novarre, with the care of these articles, and direct him to convey them to my son when he shall attain the age of sixteen years.

VI.

1. Four hundred volumes, selected from 'those in my library which I have been accustomed to use the most.